"DARE-DEVIL" TRACY NAMED IN DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 .- "Dare Devil" Joe Tracy, all-around automobile racing champion and once winner of the Vanderbilt Cup, has been made the co-respondent in an undefended divorce case, brought by Francis Woodhull Coles, a wealthy broker, against his young wife, Fannie Collins Coles. One of the unusual features in the case as related by the witnesses and contained in letters exhibited, was the fact that Tracy and the girl knew and loved each other before she met the man she married. Then she lived A letter written to Tracy several years after she is alleged to have deserted her husband, accusing Tracy of neglect, forgiving him for all the "mean things" he had done to her, and finally telling him she was going to end her life, was one of the chief exhibits.

Although the action is undefended, Justice Cohalan is hesitating about granting a decree, because of a technicality involving the five-year statule of limitations.
The letter in which Mrs. Coles threatened to take her life was addressed to "Daddy," and signed "Poor Pipe Child," which were terms of endearment between Tracy and Mrs. Coles.

tween Tracy and Mrs. Coles.

Mrs. Mary Howe and her daughter.

Elizabeth, from whom Mrs. Coles rented Ensign W. H. PORTER to Tennessee.

Ensign S. E. BRAY to Asiatic Station her modest apartment, testified that she had told them she had married Tracy when she was fifteen years old. She also added that the was not supporting her and that she was going to leave for Mexico to marry a wealthy ranch owner. The length of the friendship between the daring automobile driver and the broker's young wife is shown by a num-ber of letters admitted as evidence which were written long before the girl knew Coles. One of the letters written by Tracy in 1902, while he was in London, said, in part:

"I should have taken you to Paris with me. We could have jots of fun with me. We could have jots of fungoing around and seeing the sights. I feel lonesome and have been thinking of you all the time. I hope you will not get married before I return.

This was vears before Fannie Collins had ever seen Coles. Their courtship was very short and occurred when Tracy was touring the West. As soon as he heard of the marriage he hurried to the East.
